Many Variations in Revival of Quaint Trick-Draws Attention to Arms.

PARIS, July 3.-To wear dainty velvet wristlets on slender white wrists is a charming style that is now being revived to finish off the dance toilette. Sometimes it is merely a strip of black ribbon tied into a wee bow. The width will depend upon the taste of milady but I think the narrow ones are more graceful. Again it is the means of displaying a jewelled or enamelled initial or a diamond studded watch or even a tiny cluster of pink rosebuds poised on the turn of the wrist. No matter what it has on it, it draws attention to the curves of the arm and the pretty hand of the wearer.

Some of the latest variations of the velvet wristlet are composed of a number of tiny ivory or jewel-set puckles through which the ribbon is drawn. Great grandmother's cameo brooches and earrings are being searched for to attach to these little velvet bands and little old-fashioned enamelled clasps and lumps of agate and other semi-precious stones are used in this way.
